Cleveland Men and Columbus Women Elected by Alumni

Delaware, June 15—E. G. Guthrey of Cleveland and Mrs. Fannie Hagerman Laylin of Columbus were elected trustees of Ohio Wesleyan University yesterday at the annual election of the alumni association. The result was announced at the annual alumni dinner held at noon yesterday. The luncheon was attended by more than 1,000 graduates.

Arthur E. Brown, class of '02, was the principal speaker. President John W. Hoffman paid a tribute to the late Judge Daniel H. Sowers of Columbus, who was to have presided as toastmaster.

Charles H. Lewis, '35, of Upper Sandusky, presided and Arthur Fleming, Kingston, N. Y., spoke in behalf of the 1927 graduating class.

The W. Class, at a meeting, elected C. S. Welch, Columbus, president; Branch Ricker, St. Louis, vice president; and Karl Meister, Delaware, secretary and treasurer.

Events of last evening included the president's reception and a concert of the Ohio Wesleyan Glee Club on the eve of the departure on a European tour.

PROTEST ON BUILDING OF SIDEWALK IS FILED

Mrs. Henry Beck, Waterloo-st., Asks That Project Be Abandoned

A protest against the building of a sidewalk on the south side of Filmore-st. from Waterloo-st. to the Erie railroad, was made to City Council last night by Mrs. Henry Beck, Waterloo-st. The sidewalk was petitioned for several weeks ago and the resolution for the walk was given the first reading at the meeting of council last night.

Mrs. Beck, who says she is the owner of the largest portion of the land secured by the sidewalk, bases her objection on the grounds that she has walk in front and on one side of her property and is therefore unable to do the need of another walk, although residents of Filmore-st. who have no walk demand relief.

We may pardon a man's deadly fall but we don't want to be around when he displays it.

No Excuse for Bumpy Streets

There is a pavement—portland cement concrete—that does not develop bumps or ruts even under the heaviest traffic, but is rigid, permanent, and has maintenance built into it.

Cities and towns throughout the country are paving with Concrete because of these qualities—and because it is skid-proof, clean, and comfortable to ride on.

SEWERS ARE PROPOSED AS FLOOD RELIEF MOVE

Council Refers Recommendation of Engineer to Special Committee for Action

First steps in relieving the flooded conditions which exist in the vicinity of Park-bldg. W. Columbia and McKinley-sts following unusually heavy rains, were taken by City Council last night when a recommendation submitted by Tom S. Cathers, city engineer, providing for the building of 15 and 12-inch storm water sewers, was referred to the sewer committee of council for investigation.

The estimated cost of the sewers was given by the city engineer as $4,150. The plans as submitted provide for the building of a 15-inch sewer on the west side of Park-bldg from Columbia-st to McKinley-st and a 12-inch sewer on the south side of McKinley-st from Park-bldg to Miami-st and there to connect with the present eight-inch sewer. It was also recommended that all catch basins be connected with the new sewer.

Council also took action to relieve bad sewer conditions which have existed in the vicinity of the Bernard Straw residence on Canby-st for some time, when, acting on a report submitted by City Engineer Cathers, the service director was authorized to proceed with the building of an 18-inch sewer around the north side of the Straw residence, connecting with the present 15-inch sewer on the west side of Canby-st and also connecting with the old sewer 12 feet west of the Straw home. Numerous complaints have been made to council of the flooded condition of basements on Canby-st and some money has been spent by the city in an effort to relieve the condition.

HOCKING VALLEY CENTER SIDINGS ARE COMPLETED

Improvement Will Assist in Speeding Up Freight Traffic Here, Claim

Center sidings in the north and south Marion yards of the Hocking Valley Railroad, located near the Garden City-pk and Bellefontaine-av, respectively, have been completed, it was announced today.

The sidings, capable of handling at least 100 cars, will assist greatly in speeding up freight traffic through Marion over the Hocking Valley. The right-of-way always will be clear.

Although freight trains must necessarily hold up motor traffic for a few minutes when passing over the main streets of the city, if the cars are kept moving, the delay is not great.

Special Rates
Special rates will prevail on the Big Four through Marion during the holding of the Baergerfest at Cleveland next week.

Hocking Excursion
The second Hocking Valley excursion of the season through Marion will be held next Saturday night and Sunday, June 18 and 19, according to official announcement today. The excursion is booked from Columbus to Toledo and Detroit, via Marion. The special train will leave Marion at 1 o'clock Sunday morning, and will arrive at Detroit at 6 o'clock. On the return trip it will leave Detroit at 6:30, Sunday night. Trips to Belle Isle and Windsor, Can., are features of the excursion.

Fish Exhibit Moved
The car carrying the deep sea exhibition which has been on the Erie tracks at Oak and Mill-sts for the last four days, has been moved to Lima, where the exhibit will be held for the next few days. The car was moved over the Erie Railroad.

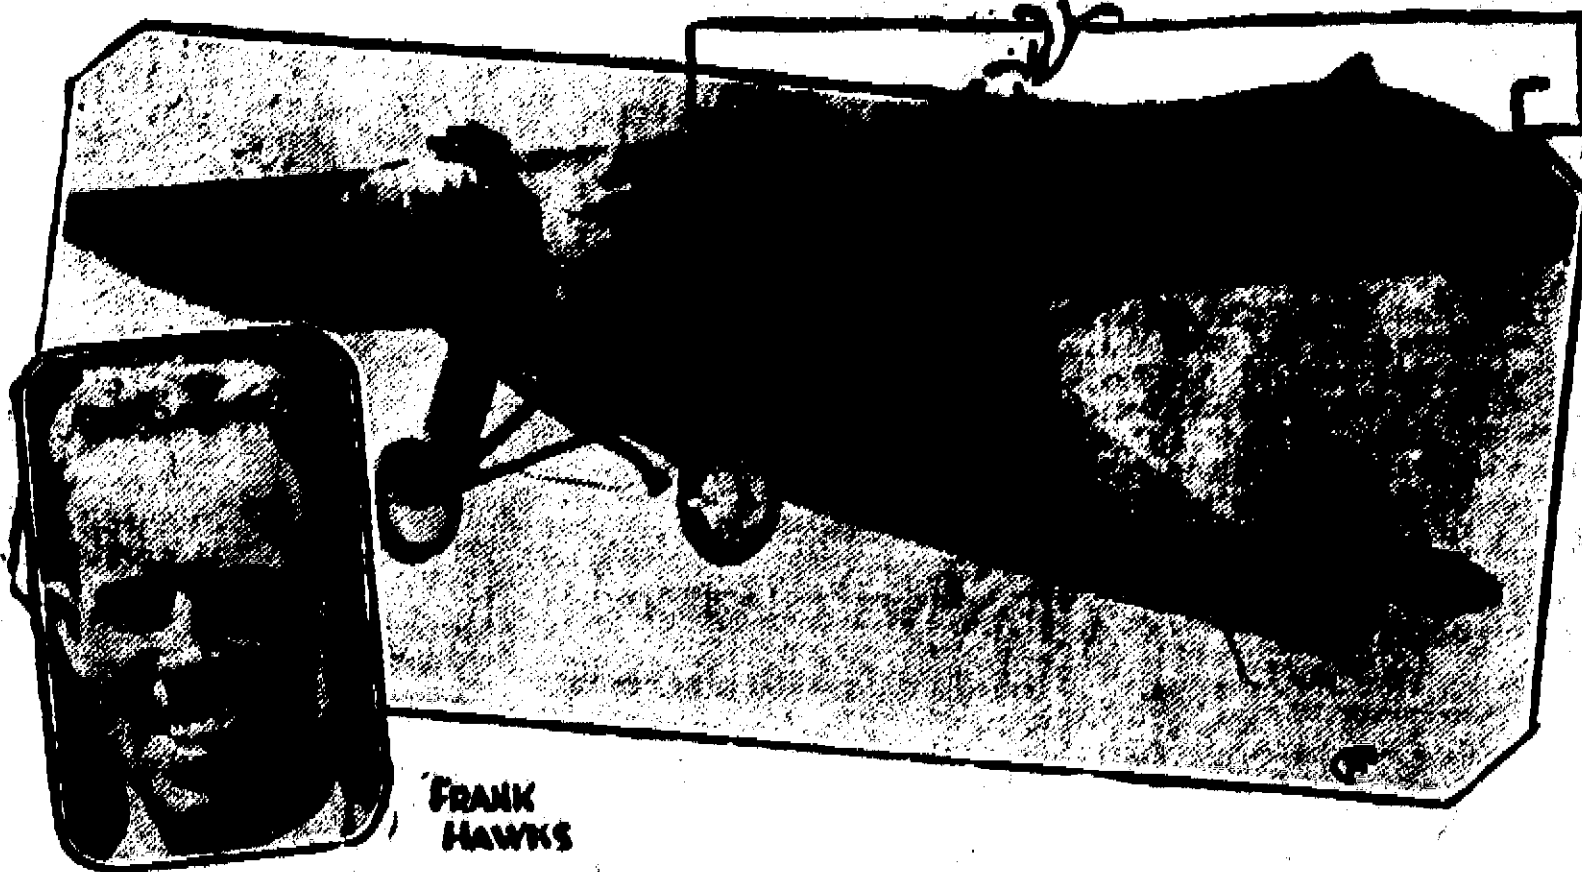

Cherry Shipment
A special express train of cherries, enroute from Chicago to New York, operated through Marion yesterday.

Division Agent Here
O. L. Enos, division passenger agent of the Kent Division, Erie Railroad, was in Marion yesterday.

On Bus 35 Years
The "Broadway Limited," the Pennsylvania Railroad's deluxe 20-hour train between New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, completes a quarter century of service today. This world-famous train began to run on June 15, 1902, inaugurating the fastest regular long distance passenger train service in history.

Flier Takes Bride on Tour In Plane Finished in Gold

FRANK HAWKS

The Gold Bug in flight with, inset, Aviator Frank Hawks.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 13.—Frank Hawks has satisfied his ambition. He flew a soundproof, fireproof monoplane of gold!

This is no idle jest. Hawks may be a dare-devil and all that, and may appear a spendthrift, to part with his money for a gold airplane. But judgment should be reserved until you read that:

Hawks left Houston several weeks ago for San Diego, Calif., where, he planned, he would purchase an airplane similar to that in which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic. On arriving at that California city, he learned it would be 60 days or longer before he could touch the stick of a plane he could call his own. Too many others had ordered.

He saw, however, on the same field from which Colonel Lindbergh first flew the Spirit of St. Louis, a trim little monoplane which resembled the New York Paris plane closely. It intrigued him, for he recognized in it some of the qualities that sent Lindbergh to Paris. But—it was finished in gold. That did not appeal to a comparatively slim purse.

Hawks had not become one of the country's leading pilots by wishing, however, so he approached Richard Robinson, a California capitalist who had had the plane built to his order for cruising over California and the west Mexican coast, with an offer of purchase.

To make a long story fairly short, Hawks whispered into Robinson's ear that he was recently married, that he wanted to take part of his honeymoon in it, and all that. The argument prevailed, and Hawks acquired a gold monoplane.

The trim craft, slightly smaller than the Lindbergh ship, has a commodious cabin to house five people. It is powered with the same kind of motor that pulled Colonel Lindbergh to Paris. It is covered entirely with gold paint and is beautifully appointed throughout.

The walls of the fuselage, two inches thick, are packed with a material that makes the cabin fire and sound proof. Glass windows with roller shades add horizontal visibility. Dome lights from the ceiling fill the cabin with light at night, and the inside area is so shielded from noise that one can read, converse or indulge in a bridge game without discomfort.

On his first flight in the Gold Bug, as the ship is called, Hawks flew with D. W. Campbell from San Diego to El Paso. After stopping at Texas cities, including a home-coming to Houston, he whirled on to St. Louis and Washington, for Colonel Lindbergh's celebration.

At the close of the novel honeymoon, Mrs. Hawks having joined her husband here, Hawks expects to enter the Gold Bug in the Ford reliability tour, starting from Detroit on June 27. His bride will be a passenger on this tour. This is the first time a woman has participated in this national competition for the $12,000 Edsel Ford trophy.

LINDY FLIGHT WAS MORE INTERESTING—DE PINEDO

Trip from Europe to America More Difficult, He Adds, Talking at Madrid

Madrid, June 13.—Commander De Pinedo, who has arrived here on the last lap of his four-continent aerial tour, today stated that he found Colonel Lindbergh's flight across the Atlantic "more interesting" than that of Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine.

"Both were magnificent flights," said De Pinedo, "although Lindbergh's was more interesting because it was carried out alone."

"A North Atlantic flight from Europe to America is more difficult than a flight from America to Europe, because aviators on reaching America must fight against fog and bad atmospheric conditions at a moment when the airplane has worked many hours and there is less resistance."

"Now apparently the only thing left for me to attempt is a non-stop flight around the world."

"The time is not ripe for the establishment of commercial airplane lines between Europe and America, because such a service would require airplanes capable of carrying heavy loads and able to depart and arrive at regular intervals. We have already seen how Chamberlin was obliged to wait a whole month before finding weather conditions favorable enough to attempt a flight."

YANKEE AIRMEN WILL INSPECT ZEPPELIN PLANT

Chamberlin and Levine Also Plan To Fly to Vienna Sunday

Baden Baden, Germany, June 13.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, the record-smashing American airmen, who have been resting here following their tumultuous reception in Berlin, will have an opportunity today to inspect the great Zeppelin factory at Friedrichshafen.

Chamberlin and Levine planned to motor to Karlsruhe and fly thence to Friedrichshafen, where they will be the guests of the Zeppelin officials.

Following this ceremony they will go to Frankfurt, where they will be guests of honor at a banquet tonight. The airmen were guests at a banquet here last night, where they heard themselves acclaimed as brilliant and courageous pioneers of the air.

To Vienna Sunday
Chamberlin and Levine now plan to fly to Vienna on Sunday. On Friday they will meet their wives, who are due at Bremen that day on the German liner Berlin.

Chamberlin was much interested in cablegrams from New York quoting his mother as saying she would be willing to fly back to America with him. He did not say whether he would extend an invitation to her to be a passenger.

MRS. CHAMBERLIN WOULD FLY ACROSS

New York, June 13.—Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin, of Denison, Iowa, who sailed for Plymouth, Eng., early today on the liner George Washington, said before her departure that she would be willing to risk a flight across the Atlantic in her son, Clarence Chamberlin's airplane if she were invited to do so. However, it is considered unlikely that the famous transatlantic airmen will invite his mother to undertake such a hazardous voyage.

If he decides to fly back in the Columbia.

While at Friedrichshafen Levine planned to consult with Dr. Hugo Eckener regarding his projected transatlantic airline upon which he plans to use Zeppelins.

Laugh at Detours!

Better 7 Ways

- 1 It is non-detouring
- 2 It gives instant starting
- 3 It gives lightning acceleration
- 4 It gives great power—smoothly
- 5 It gives more miles per gallon
- 6 It burns cleanly—no soot or carbon
- 7 It is safe for you and your motor

Just when you are most enjoying mile after mile of breezy speed, hill after hill without an effort, happy because of the time you have made—then—up looms the old joy-killer, "detour." And what trouble may be packed in that one word! Delay; a slow grind through ruts, mud, or sand; steep hills.

Energex DETONOX Gasoline will not actually flatten out the hills nor dry up the mud, but it will supply the smooth, surging power to easily over-ride detour difficulties without knocking and without overheating your motor.

Energex DETONOX is the ideal fuel for all driving conditions—town or country, highway or by-way. It is more than a "high test", not just another "no-knock" fuel. DETONOX is a year-round gasoline, which increases the pleasure and economy of motoring by combining all the desirable qualities in one motor fuel.

Get a tank-full of DETONOX—straight and pure. Try it under all conditions. You be the judge!

Daily Proverb—"Nothing is so difficult but what men will accomplish it."

Silence may be golden, as we are told, but it may be noticed that gold does an awful lot of talking in this day and age.

One just naturally has to sympathize with Mustapha Kemal. Think what his feelings must be with a speech two days long in his system!

From newspaper reports, we judge that Washington, saving and excepting the capitol, the Washington monument and the Lincoln memorial, gave Lindbergh everything it had.

It may be true that women's feet are growing larger, as held. Again, it may be that their feet are simply swollen as a result of the way the high heels they are wearing causes them to walk on their toes.

There are times when we are inclined to feel that the reason why Queen Marie was able to take the news of the very critical illness of Ferdinand so calmly was that she might have been a bit desirous of getting back home and was a party to its manufacturing.

If we get the Hon. William Gibbs McAdoo correctly, there is not the slightest occasion for Democracy to worry over the possibility that it may not be able to get a candidate and a platform, not, at least, so long as he is around.

Washington feels that a great national stadium should be built there for just such events as the reception of Lindbergh. We take it that Washington anticipates justification for such an event every week or two hereafter.

We have been afraid all along that the Ohio State Journal man's persistent worrying over his mother-in-law and her stepdaughter would lead to something simply awful, and now, to confirm our fears, we note that Dr. Mrs. Sachs, of Berlin, says that worry is just about sure to cause prothrombosis.

We have never had the corns for the Turks manifested by some. We have never been able to get away from the thought that there must be something beyond the ordinary in any man capable of getting along with anywhere from five to twenty wives.

It was something of a surprise to read in a recent number of the Columbus Dispatch that "when Ohio feels that she is down to the last dollar in her treasury she generally finds, on a second look, a nice little bunch of money sufficient for all necessary purposes that had been overlooked." Can it be that the Dispatch imagines that the powers that be ever overlook either any funds or any opportunity to spend them?

A Missouri girl is said to have composed a book of poetry while helping her mother wash the dishes, meal after meal and day after day. If the dish-washing inspired the poetry, let us not hold her product up against her, but if the poetry led to the help she gave "mother" with the dishes, the pursuit of the muse can not too greatly be encouraged.

Monkeys Being Removed.

We are glad to note that the city authorities are at last putting defective sidewalk cross-overs at street and alley intersections into such shape that they will no longer be a menace to the public. We say "at last" for the reason that a number of such cross-overs have been in bad shape for a number of years without receiving any correction which remained permanent. Possibly the city's neglect in this regard was due to lack of funds with which to make repairs, but whatever the cause these defective cross-overs did not receive the attention up to the present which should have been given them.

The method of correction being used is to remove the iron cross-overs from the gutters at street and alley intersections, cut away the sandstone support and the backing used to bring it up to the level and curve the street or alley paving, whichever it may be, from its crown to the sidewalk curb. The change does not leave an even-level pavement, of course; the pedestrian must step down or up at each curb where under the old plan he kept on at the sidewalk level; it is hardly so slightly when smoothed as it was originally in its old form, but it is durable and far safer than such cross-overs could be when the iron cross-overs became broken or slipped out of place.

In the days when these iron cross-overs were installed they were adequate, for vehicular traffic then was largely horse-drawn. They would stand the weight of a buggy or an ordinary wagon, but since the advent of the motor into common use and the liability of the careless driver to run his machine over them, they have not fitted the bill.

Probably the undamaged cross-overs taken from the near-bottom sections may be utilized to replace broken ones in the purely residential districts where traffic is not so heavy, but no matter what disposition is made of them, it is good to know that the menace to life and limb the broken ones have offered no longer obtains. The service department is to be congratulated over the manner in which it is solving this problem.

Lax Enforcement of Traffic Laws

The summary of Marion's awful traffic toll for a week past, run upon the front page of Tuesday's Star, must have recalled to readers of these columns the repeated warnings uttered therein that our traffic laws must be better enforced by the authorities and greater care exercised by motorists and pedestrians alike or tragedy would be bound to result.

The summary showed three dead—two of them children—three seriously injured; one with a broken back and one, a child, with a fractured skull, and a number suffering from minor injuries.

We do not know that any of the accidents which caused this toll was due to carelessness on the part of motorists. It is possible that the drivers of the cars involved in these deaths and injuries exercised a high degree of care and did all in their power to avert them. We believe that ninety-five out of every hundred motorists in Marion drive carefully. We do not know whether the drivers in the six cases in question are numbered among the ninety-five or the five, nor do we propose to discuss this phase of the matter at this time. But we do know that some of our motorists—we are glad to say that they represent but a small percentage of the local motorist total—habitually drive carelessly and recklessly, and they drive through our up-town business section with apparent impunity without regard to the speed limitations, without regard to the electric signals and in utter disregard of the rights of pedestrians or fellow-motorists. So long as this comparative few are permitted to defy the law and the rights of others they are a menace to the lives of pedestrians and motorists alike. The very immunity they seemingly enjoy in the business sections encourages them to excesses in the residential, where they drive at excessive speed, ignore thoroughfare approaches and drive through traffic on the wrong side of the street. We can not help but feel that if the police authorities would pay more attention to these offenders and less to carding cars parked overtime, the better it would be for our citizens generally. As we once remarked in the past, there is comparatively little danger of a parked car running over and killing anybody.

Mayor Hansen and Chief Thompson appeal to motorists to drive with greater care; they appeal to children to keep off the streets, and they appeal to parents to keep their children off the streets, all of which is well and good. We sincerely hope that their appeals will be heeded. We will go further and hope that the parents of children who make a practice of running in front of automobiles in a spirit of daring or deviltry, whichever it may be, will give them overlastingly good trainings till such practices are stopped. Thus far local children suffer from automobile accidents have been innocent victims, but sooner or later such impish children, if not restrained, will add to the tragedy toll.

But while hoping all this, we have yet another hope—a hope which we might express as an appeal on the part of the citizens of Marion to Mayor Hansen and Chief Thompson. It is that henceforth less attention be paid to violations of traffic ordinances which in no way threaten life or limb, and more to those violations of cars and more to violations of traffic ordinances, whether the offenders be motorists or pedestrians, for pedestrians owe a duty to motorists just as motorists owe a duty to pedestrians.

It's just possible that, had Mussolini the thing to do over again, he would have selected purple rather than black for the color of those shirts.

In case Ruth Snyder, by one pretext or another, should escape the electric chair, it's going to make mighty hard sledding for women who are charged with crime before juries hereafter. It seems to be the general feeling that nothing less than her execution will meet the conditions in her case.

THE NEW RAINBOW

First Aid "Kits" in Every Home.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In the coal mines of the United States 178 men were killed in a recent month. There were two deaths for every million tons of soft coal mined and six deaths for every million tons of anthracite.

One of the sad things about industry is that so many lives must be sacrificed to make it succeed. Every particle of coal used for our convenience, many of the foods we eat, are baptised by the blood of fellow human beings.

In the coal mines there are dust and gas explosions, premature discharges of explosives, and falls of roof and coal. Mining is a hazardous calling, but thousands of men are willing to serve humanity by giving their talents and their lives to this necessary business.

It is gratifying that the laws of most states, as well as the voluntary regulations of private industry, have made provision for safety devices and all sorts of methods to protect life and limb. In consequence the hazards of the dangerous callings are being steadily reduced. This is as it should be.

Of course, there are accidents in every household, as well as in the coal mines and great factories. Hardly a day passes but a cut or a burn is suffered in the home. Cellar stairs, carving knives and falling objects are always waiting for victims.

Do you know what to do in case of an accident? Is there a first aid "kit" in your house?

You should have a place for such an outfit. It should be kept there and nowhere else. Your box or can—whatever you use for a receptacle should be kept stocked. Do not use the last bandage, without making provision for a renewal of stock.

The other day I heard of an accident in a hotel, and it was found that the required things for first aid were not there. Somebody neglected to do his duty. It should be somebody's business to make sure the supplies are on hand.

The best sort of container for such things is a shallow glass jar. Nine times out of ten the one sent for the needed material is scared or "rattled." The transparency of the jar will give a view of everything it contains. There will be less delay in consequence.

Some of the things you should keep in stock are bandages, adhesive plaster and a bottle of iodine. A small package of cotton, another of gauze, safety pins, a bunch of wooden toothpicks, scissors, and plain forceps are necessary to have.

Some day I will describe in detail what should be in your jar. There is no use in having a lot of drugs and things which mean nothing to you. Have no more than you need but be sure to provide enough in quantity.

Editorial Comment.

RADICALISM AT THE CAPITOL.

In a notable address delivered at New York before the patriotic societies of America, meeting under the auspices of the Key Men of America, Martin W. Littleton, distinguished New York lawyer, called special attention to the presence of radicalism in Washington.

Among other things, Mr. Littleton said: "Senator La Follette is a leader, and the things which he proposed are still going on. In my judgment, and I believe, in the judgment of many, they are inimical to the welfare of the country—probably dangerous to its perpetuity, and certainly out of accord with its history."

"Therefore, it behooves us to know that that leadership is still going on through other men like Senator Norris; through men like Senator Borah, and through a group of men in the American senate, who are compromising every day with socialism and communism in some form or other, little or much—but they are doing it."

No one successfully can deny this plain allegation. The proof is too abundant. La Follette's successors are even more dangerous than he was. Among these men, for example, stand those who regard the supreme court of the United States as archaic and urge that it should be abolished or, if not abolished, in the words of Mr. Littleton, it ought to be so arranged that whenever they decide anything Congress can rescind it and reverse them. La Follette and Wheeler ran on that platform for the presidency and vice presidency of the United States. And Mr. Littleton avers that worse men have taken La Follette's place—men who would submit the fate of transient rights guaranteed by the constitution to the whims of transient public opinion instead of to the tried and tested experience of the ages."

Some of these men are advocates of government ownership—most insidious of all Socialistic proposals. They declare for that which is howled for by all radicalism. And it must not be forgotten that it was Borah who said: "Thank God the Cantonese are in Shanghai!" and this week we have the news that the great factional leaders in China have joined hands and forces in order that they may be able to destroy communism in China.

Mr. Littleton declared Borah and Norris to be false and dangerous leaders. He called attention to a meeting which was held in the judiciary committee in the senate offices building a short time ago, and asked: "Who was it held by?" answering, "By Senator Norris." He further inquired: "Who else was there?" Three or four other gentlemen, he asserted—"Raubenbach among them—who represent the program to undo and unmake the government of this country and who belongs to all of the organizations which have pledged themselves to destroy it."

These are a few of the high lights of Mr. Littleton's speech, but they should be impressive to all those who believe in the preservation of the principle that all men are created equal and justly are entitled to the right to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

BACK TO BUSINESS.

Ever since the southern Nationalists began their northward march in China the city of Shanghai, or the foreign part of it, which is the only part that is loudly vocal, has been indulging in delicious shivers of terror and proclaiming to all the world the imminent danger of dire and doleful devastation. From Shanghai have emanated the reports of atrocities which were expected to stampede the United States of America into active cooperation with Great Britain in punitive and coercive measures against the south-eastern Chinese.

The people of Shanghai built barricades, closed their houses and welcomed the American marines and British soldiers who came to save the city from destruction. And finally, at Shanghai, the North China News, British organ in China, issued its scathing denunciation of the United States government for declining to view Chinese affairs through Austen Chamberlain's spectacles.

"The southern flood swept up to Shanghai and has now passed beyond Shanghai and nothing untoward has happened. The only discomforts have been the barricades ostentatiously placed in the principal streets, and the hampering of business caused by the repeated proclamations of peril. So now the barricades have been removed, and the proclamations have assumed a placid tone. The foreigners in Shanghai must have business and plenty of it in order to be happy. They would have been pleased to bring active intervention; but, having failed, the next best thing is to desert from their futile efforts and to get down to business again. This, accordingly, is what they are doing."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

WILL CIGARETTES FOLLOW?

Eight years ago Oregon passed a state gasoline tax. The idea rapidly spread and now only four remain without it. The first year it yielded $604,000; and last year it brought $102,000,000 to state treasuries. Will the states follow suit on cigarettes?

Last year Uncle Sam's tax on cigarettes, six cents for a package of twenty, yielded the treasury $208,444,643. In 1914 we received 17,000,000,000 cigarettes—in 1926, 80,000,000,000. No wonder the states are starting to look hungrily at this vast source of taxation willingly paid. But it must be remembered that a cigarette tax will be harder to collect than the one on gasoline, because cigarettes can be ordered and shipped from a neighboring state.—Review of Reviews.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Said George Elliot: "There is no short-cut, no patent tram-road to wisdom. After all the centuries of invention, the soul's path still lies through the thorny wilderness which our feet will tread in solitude, with bleeding feet, with pain for help, as it was trodden by them of old time."

Strange, is it not, that despite all the labor-saving devices, all the washing machines, automobiles and wireless cookers on the face of the earth, the great experiences of life which make men and women bigger and better must come just as hard as they did. The way to real worth, to actual greatness, is no easier. The things to be added to life which give it real meaning and purpose and which alone make worth living in the larger sense, must come just as they always have. All the automatic machinery in the world can not give the soul of man something for nothing.

"The path of glory is barred hog-tight for a man who does not labor while he waits," William Allen White says. When White went to Emporia, Kansas, twenty-seven years ago, he and his family had only a dollar and a quarter in cash. He borrowed all the money with which to buy a country newspaper. Today, by studying people and loving people, plus an unlimited portion of hard work, he has reached the place where he can get a big enough price for everything he writes to make him a rich man. He labored while he waited.

Chewing gum, barred from sale on the ships of our navy, fifteen years ago, is back in popular standing. Scientists and students of history may now determine whether this is an indication of human progress or merely a change in habits.

Sir Joshua Reynolds, great painter, once wrote a line which told a great deal of truth about all of us as we are: "There is no patient to which a man will not resort to avoid the real labor of thinking."

It is so easy to accept opinions ready made, to agree with the last man we talk to, to fall in line and march with the crowd just because everybody is going that way. It takes courage to be inconsistent and different. It takes nerve to proceed on your own convictions.—Copyright, 1927.

RENEW SEARCH FOR NUNGESSER AND COMPANION

Signal Flares Reported Seen
Sunday Night Speed Up
Rescue Work

Quebec, Que., June 15—Arrangements are under way by the Quebec provincial government today to dispatch a plane to the wild and desolate mountain district near St. Germaine Township, north of the Saguenay River, where signal flares were reported Sunday night leading to belief in some quarters that they may have been set off by Charles Nungesser and Francois Cole, the French aviators who disappeared without a trace while trying to make a non-stop flight from Paris
to New York.

The district where woodsmen saw
the signals is about 200 miles northeast of Chicoutimi.
Edmond Lavoie, a civil engineer of Chicoutimi, told local officials that the flares were visible in St. Germaine Township. The location he described would put them about 600 miles west of Newfoundland.
To Send Out Plane
Quebec provincial officials were keenly interested in the news and immediately took steps to send out a plane that had been previously used to search the north shore as far as Belle Isle for traces of the missing French fliers.

It was reported from Chicoutimi
that residents of St. Germaine township might not wait for the hydroplane
but would send out a posse today to search the district for traces of the aviators and their plane. The point where the signals were seen is an elevated one. If the aviators had been forced down in that region it would probably have been the first spot where they would have come into contact with civilization.

ON WAY SOUTH

A number of Indians who make up the population of the region where the lights were seen are on their way south. It is possible that they may have information regarding the missing fliers. The Indians are due to reach the Lake St. John District or other populated districts on St. Peter's Bay about June 20.

It was suggested that the Indians
may have set off the signals, but experienced woodsmen state the never before within their memory have the Indians used flares to announce their journey.

MAY HAVE FALLEN IN WITH INDIANS

Montreal, Que., June 15—Survivors
in the Grand Caribou River district are believed by Ayia Bodard, assistant director of the provincial forestry department, to be responsible for flares
seen in the direction of Cape Eternite Mountain Sunday night. Two land surveying parties are operating in that district. Although the department does not know the distress signals came from Nungesser, 50 men have been despatched to search the mountain top and planes will also be sent. It is believed possible Nungesser and Cole
may have fallen in with a surveying party or with Indians who are on their way south with their spring catch of furs.

Lindbergh to be Guarded Against Cranks and Kisses

Recall Fate of Lieutenant Hobson, Cuban Naval Hero,
at Homecoming

WASHINGTON, June 15—Colonel Lindbergh will continue to be guarded, while he remains virtually the public's prisoner, entirely dependent on his custodians to take good care of him, so mightily few eyes of the world's potentates ever have been guarded.
His well-wishers declare he's in imminent peril. They make out a pretty dramatic case of it.

Dictators, like Mussolini, make enemies who try to assassinate them.
Cranks, like Lindbergh, make enemies who try to kidnap them. Kidnapers and other desperados have to be kept away from multimillionaires and their families.

Lindbergh's danger is peculiar.
FROM the minute that Charlie landed at Le Bourget, everybody has been amazed at his perfect poise: at his seemingly instinctive perception of exactly the right thing to do at the proper moment; at his marvelous faculty for steering precisely the true course
through every unfamiliar situation.

It's almost automatic in Washington,
where they think they know all about public characters, that a man can become a hero by degrees and perform credibly as one indefinitely, but that he can't do it overnight without eventually putting his foot into it.

After watching all this time for Lindbergh to make a break, however, without the slightest sign of a slip on his part, the critics are about ready to admit that he's an exception. If he weren't practically proof against bad mistakes, they own, he certainly would have fallen into some already.

So far, then, as concerns any word or act of the colonel's own, his friends minds are quite at ease about him.
But the question arises:
Isn't there grave risk that a lot of his fool admirers will spring on him

Social Activities

A DELIGHTFUL social event of the week will be the bridge luncheon Thursday afternoon at the Marion County Club arranged by Mrs. J. L. Hoover and members of her committee, Mrs. Edmund H. Keller, Mrs. George B. Scofield, Mrs. E. K. Uhler, Mrs. C. E. Anderson and Miss Geraldine Ford, for the pleasure of ladies of the club. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock and will be followed by cards. Reservations for luncheon should be made by 8 o'clock Thursday morning.

MRS. HAROLD K. MOUSER was hostess to members of her bridge club last night at her home, 8 West-1st-st. Covers were placed for a picnic dinner and later tables were arranged for cards.

ONE of the loveliest social events of the season was the guest day party and annual flag day observance at which members of Captain William Hendricks Chapter, D. A. R., were hostesses yesterday afternoon at the County Club. The American flag and the Flag of Ohio added a colorful note to the room and were the only decorations used, while baskets of spring flowers centered the tables at which covers were placed for eighty-one at the one o'clock luncheon. During the program Mrs. George Frank contributed an interesting paper on "The National Flag," and Mrs. James W. McHenry gave an inspiring paper on "The Ohio Flag." Mrs. L. J. Strick, of Painesville, gave an interesting talk on the history of the chapter. Completing the afternoon program was a group of delightful piano interpretations of the music of Colonial times and several vocal numbers also in keeping with the occasion, by Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Moore.

Guests were Mrs. Lawrence Young, of Morral; Mrs. John Harrison, of California; Mrs. Susie Moore Hames, of Denver, Colo.; Mrs. L. L. Strick, of Painesville, Pa.; Mrs. Grant E. Mouser, Jr., of Columbus; Mrs. C. W. Schell, Mrs. J. E. Fries, Mrs. Harvey E. Gracely, Mrs. Arthur E. Chesser, Mrs. C. E. Cox, Mrs. Gertrude Kling, Mrs. Walter E. Schaffner, Mrs. E. H. Hindley, Mrs. Damon Guthrie, Mrs. Grant Davis, Mrs. Frank R. Mann, Mrs. O. W. Gamble, Mrs. J. B. Brown, Mrs. D. Owens, Mrs. James Cooper, Mrs. Clarence Long, Mrs. V. F. Davis, Mrs. E. K. Uhler, Mrs. J. E. Phillips, Mrs. J. T. Matthews, Mrs. Wilbur Symes, Mrs. J. E. Anderson, Mrs. E. E. Miller, Miss Hortense Fies, Miss Alice Gertrude Smith, Miss Mary Louise Burke. Mrs. W. S. Harvey presided as chairman of the committee in charge of plans for the event, assisted by Mrs. F. J. Longshore, Mrs. F. E. Mahlin, Mrs. George Frank and Mrs. T. R. Allen.

Miss Ruth Hadley and E. C. Dunkle Wed

Cards have been received here announcing the marriage of Miss Ruth Hadley, of Springfield, and Richard C. Dunkle, of Dayton, which was solemnized at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the Rogers Park Lutheran Church in Chicago. Rev. Hognhead, officiating. Mrs. Harold Becker, of Lima, sister of the bride, and Mr. Becker were the attendants. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dunkle left on a wedding trip and upon their return will make their home at 4 W. Hudson-av. Mrs. Dunkle is the daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Hadley, of Chicago. Her father the late Rev. Hadley, was a former pastor of the Lutheran Church at Gallien. Mr. Dunkle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunkle, of Springfield, and is connected with the Frigidaire Department of the General Motors Co., Dayton. He formerly was sports editor with The Marion Star.

Members of the Earl Sunday School Class, Trinity Baptist Church, were unanimous in the vote commending Judge McNeal for closing the dancehall at Crystal Lake Park on Sunday nights. In a business meeting at their annual class social and picnic last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Unscapher, E. Center-st. Members and guests numbering 141 were served at a picnic supper by members of Mrs. Ralph Winget's group of which Mrs. J. S. Hart is chairman.

F. H. LeMasters was in charge of the devotional services and read the ninety-third psalm and prayer was offered by Mrs. J. E. Beryl. Rev. Wiley E. Young, pastor of First Memorial Baptist Church, concluded the service with prayer.

During the program hour members of the Osgood Quartet entertained with several vocal numbers and Rev. Mr. Young, accompanied at the piano by "He's Just the Same Today." Rev. Young also entertained with a number of impersonations of Harry Lauder, and with Mrs. Young concluding the program hour with a vocal duet. The gathering was dismissed with the benediction by Dr. U. S. Davis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church.

GRANGE MEETS

Grand Prairie Organization Receives Four Applications

Mrs. Fred Zimmerman and Bernadi Williams were chosen lady assistant and assistant steward at the meeting of members of Grand Prairie Grange, No. 70, last night in the grange hall. They will succeed Mr. and Mrs. John Barkley who resigned. Four applications were received and will be balloted on at the next meeting June 28. Plans were made to attend a meeting of Wheatstone Grange, June 21 at which time the Grand Prairie members will give a program.

Miss Juanita Owing opened the program hour with a piano number, "Glowworm," and responded to an encore with "Bachelor Buttons." A reading, "Nebuchadnezzar," was given by Miss Elizabeth Hord and Charles Owing contributed a violin solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss Juanita Owing. Honors in a cloverleaf relay race between teams captained by Carl Hill and Fenton Hord, were awarded Mr. Hord's team.

Mrs. L. W. Allen, of Minerva, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Temple, Wood-st.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Burley and children, Ronald, Ferol and Richard, of 350 S. Grand-av, have gone to New York, where they will spend several weeks with Mrs. Burley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Richards.

Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Evans have returned to their home in Toledo, after several days' visit with Dr. and Mrs. O. M. Young, E. Church-st.

BECOMES PRESIDENT

Mrs. J. A. Rice Succeeds Mrs. Howard Dunn

Mrs. J. A. Rice, senior vice president of Corporal Harris Circle, No. 25, Grand Army of the Republic, became president at a meeting yesterday afternoon at Community Home, S. High-st, with the resignation of Mrs. Howard Dunn, who moved to Ash-tabula Monday. Mrs. Doris Smith, junior vice president, became senior, and Mrs. Maude Obernour was elected junior vice president. Two applications for membership were received.

An interesting Flag Day program of readings, recitations and patriotic songs was enjoyed. There was a good attendance. The next regular meeting will be held at the home in two weeks.

LOYAL WOMEN'S CLASS HOLDS SOCIAL MEETING

Members of the Loyal Women's Class, Central Christian Sunday School, met yesterday afternoon in the church parlors for a social meeting and also a farewell for Mr. and Mrs. E. Gillespie who will leave Thursday for California where they will make their home. The program hour opened with a song and devotionals conducted by Mrs. Earl Harrod. Mrs. Gillespie was presented a gift in appreciation of her interest as a member of the class.

A brief talk by E. Gillespie was followed by a reading, "Miriam," by Mrs. T. W. Woodruff. The program was followed by a social hour and picnic supper. Guests of the class were Rev. C. E. Groves and C. F. Gillespie. The next meeting will be July 21. Yesterday's meeting will take the place of the regular meeting scheduled for Thursday.

Episcopal Rector Startles Congress With His Opinions

San Francisco, June 15—With the rather startling address of Rev. Henry Lewis, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Ann Arbor, Mich., still a warm topic of discussion, the second session of the Episcopal Church congress got under way here today with the holding of communion services by Rev. John G. Murray, bishop of Maryland.

Speaking before the congress last night Reverend Lewis voiced the opinion that unmarried unions should be sanctioned by the church.

"If to sanctify unmarried unions," he said, "would do away, as some urge that it would, with promiscuity and the double standard, and better protect the children of legal marriages, then it should be considered."

"All of us are probably not willing to concede the sanctification of unmarried unions, but there are some scientific grounds for it."

OBSERVE FLAG DAY

Betsy Ross Auxiliary Members Hold Program

In observance of Flag Day yesterday, members of Betsy Ross Auxiliary, No. 14, Spanish American War Veterans, entertained the veterans last night at Community Home, S. High-st. Mr. and Mrs. Zed Gunder, E. Center-st, who were celebrating their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary, were presented attractive gifts.

The program consisted of a piano solo played by Miss Grace Morrison, two readings, "Saint Peter at the Gates" and "In 'de Mornin'," given by Miss Doris Bondley and a piano solo played by Miss Lenore Bondley. Sylvester Larkin was heard in a splendid address on "The American Flag" and Rev. Albert Law of Waldo in an address on the same subject in which he gave a short treatise on the flag. The program closed with the singing of "America."

Mrs. Elmer Bondley was in charge of the program, and Mrs. J. A. Rice, Mrs. Anna B. Jones and Mrs. Scott Howison of the refreshments which were served. Plans were made for an all-day meeting at the home June 24.

New Beauty
Plus the utmost in tooth aids

Here are the best ways men have learned to beautify the teeth. You will be amazed at the new glow it brings to your teeth in a day. With that it combines the best ways to purify the breath, the best ways to combat mouth germs. All the best that modern dental science has to offer is embodied in this modern tooth paste. The results in one day will amaze and delight you. Nothing you have used can compare with it. Some 50 experts have combined to make Phillips' Dental Magnesia the most efficient and most perfect tooth paste in existence.

The basis is magnesia. Not ordinary magnesia, but Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in concentrated form. For 50 years dentists have advised this for daily use on the teeth. Magnesia neutralizes acids. It is alkaline. The acids form, by food fermentation, between the teeth and in crevices. Magnesia goes where those acids form. And those acids are made harmless at its touch.

When you know the facts, you will never go to sleep without magnesia on your teeth. And these other helps in combination with it.

Please learn what this utmost in a dentifrice means to you and yours. Watch it whiten the teeth, sweeten the breath, create a pleasant taste in your mouth. After using it once you will never want a tooth paste which does less. Go prove this now.

CIRCLE GUESTS

Calvary Evangelical Church Group Holds Meeting

Mrs. H. O. Reager, Mrs. J. A. McDaniels, Misses Charlotte Courtney, Donna Imbody, Josephine Imbody and Josephine Augenstein, were guests of members of the Loyal Ruth Circle, Calvary Evangelical Church at a meeting held last night at the home of Miss Esther Rutherford, 350 Cherry-st. Assistant hostesses were Misses Virginia Ray and Coral Underwood.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Miss Delta Midland after which the mission study was given by Misses Geraldine Allen and Mary Louise Rutherford. A poem, "Hark! Hark! Hark!" was given by Miss Wilma Click and pamphlet, "Tithing," was read by Miss Alice Artopoulos. Mrs. Reager gave an interesting talk, "Women's Work in the Early Church." Miss Virginia Rutherford entertained with a vocal solo and Miss Charlotte Courtney with a piano selection. Mrs. McDaniels was heard in a vocal number, "Just for Today." The next regular meeting will be held July 12, the place to be decided later.

It wasn't Cleopatra's beauty that laid great Caesar low—

FOR Cleopatra wasn't strictly beautiful, historians tell us. She had a sweet voice, the playfulness of a kitten
—and charm. It was charm that laid Caesar low! And Antony after him.

Ninon de Lenclos, too, was far from handsome, Voltaire says. But high spirits and charm surrounded Ninon with admirers till she died in 1706 at a ripe old age!

"If a woman has charm, it doesn't matter how much else she lacks. If she lacks charm, it doesn't matter how much else she has!" This is a modern wise man—Sir James M. Barrie—speaking, and his definition has never been improved upon.

Every woman has latent loveliness

That little precious smacking! Every woman has more or less of it. Just because you are a woman, charm is your birthright.

And all the gay, bright, beautiful things that enhance your feminine attractiveness are your right to enjoy, too—just because you are a woman. Spanish shawls, bizarre printed silks, exotic perfumes, the mysterious luster of pearls... Dainty, luxurious, don't they make you feel more charming? Don't they add to your enjoyment of life? Then make the most of them! The world expects women to be lovely and restful and young. Your charm and youthful enjoyment make this old world a happier place to live in!

ly into their hands the Eye, waving aside the great, red seat that was the great throne! He saw the marabouts seated to the east, while Allal Abdi walked down among the great concourse of people who were gathered,
and disappeared.

No planer could anything have been shown. Truly, the Marabout of Adrar could see that Allal Abdi did not aspire to rule the Berbers; that he did not seek the power now held by the marabouts; therefore could not be their enemy. This lesson, added to that driven home by the vision of the twin battles, left an indelible mark on the marabout's mind.

Suddenly Larry's voice died and the wall became blank. He reached out, at the same time snapping his fingers
before the other's face. The holy man awoke with a jerk and rapidly regained his normal senses. He gazed at Larry with eyes that held not a little awe. His croaking voice sound-

"Of a truth, you are the greatest of all the wizards, and that which I did see of the future made me to give you a message. It is this—certain things shall not come to pass as previously ordained and if you know the youth Allal Abdi and tell him this, he will understand."

Now Larry played his trump card.
His hands again came from under his burnouse, but apparently they were empty. His voice dripped softly through the thick silence of the hut:

"The words of the Father of Wisdom shall be tested. A white spirit, which shall come to me and take the form of a tiny osprey, shall leave your bed. If the spirit flies through the door and far away, disappearing from our den, then shall the Compassionate
One have made you out a liar; if, on the other hand, the spirit shall flutter as though loth to leave you, then shall Allah have verified your every word."

He leaned forward and passed his hands before the marabout's face with a rapid gesture, then leaned back. A startled look swept the marabout's
features as his beard suddenly heaved and fluttered. Then from the tangled mass of grizzled hair there darted a tiny, baby osprey, its feathers as white as driven snow. With a frightened chirp it took to the air, beating vallantly with its ludicrously undersize wings, striving mightily to hold its altitude, only to succumb to its own weight before it could reach even the doorway, a scant dozen feet distant.

It struck the eastern floor and

teetered, pointing, on tiny, pink-toed
feet, its little head bobbing from side to side. Then, hopping, it calmly went out into the sunlight where they could see it wavering, as though taking its bearings. Larry looked at the marabout and found the ancient villain's eyes regarding him with awe and fear.

"The message of the spirit is that you spoke truly, holy one. It is well.
For your reward Allah shall give you forever a bed of flowers. See?" And his hands fluttered again, rapidly, so rapidly that the marabout's eyes followed them in vain; and petals of poppy, larkspur, ashodol, lady's smock,
musk balsam-scores, hundreds, thousands of petals, fell like rain on and around the holy man, their pungent fragrance stinging his nostrils, their

As the thought of the girl flitted
through his mind he turned his eyes
and glanced toward her—that is, he
gazed where she had been sitting when
he had hypnotized the marabout. But
she was not there!

Red rage flared across his vision. He scented a marabout trick, yet he could
not understand how it had come about,
for he was certain—as certain as he
was that he was standing there—that
the Marabout of Adrar had had nothing
to do with the disappearance. Perhaps
she had stepped outside; yet, she hardly
would have done that, knowing that he
had expected her might need her; had
even told her to hold herself ready to
follow him lead if he should call on her
for assistance.

He became on the instant a fighting
man. His wizard's character dropped
from him like the shadows from el-Dhoul with the approach of dawn. His long, slender sword came swinging from
its scabbard and flew in a whistling arc
about his head, to come to a pause with
its point pricking the throat of the marabout. His voice, when he spoke,
was thick and heavy:

"Father of Bith, offspring of jackals,
what has become of my companion?"

At this, the marabout turned astonished eyes on the spot where Penna
had sat, even as he shrunk from the menace of the sword's point. Now he turned and looked at Larry and the
latter could see the truth in the heavy,
fear-stricken eyes when the villain answered:

"Al, the youth sat there when last
I glanced that way. I swear by Allah
and the hope of heaven that I know
not where he went, nor how."

And Larry realized that the men
spoke truly, whereupon, with a great
rage in his brain and a great wound
in his heart, he sped to the door and
looked outside, across the tiny, sunlit
clearing. But the only sign of life
that met his gaze was a tiny, white
osprey chick, twittering and hopping,
flitting and wavering, making hesitat-
ing little flights towards the green,
vivid wall of the forest.

He turned back to the marabout and
spoke swiftly:

"The youth my assistant has disappeared. I follow to seek him. Look
well, holy man, that you recall the message you gave me concerning one Allal Abdi, else Allah, along can stay
the vengeance that will be visited upon
you and yours."

"I have spoken; that which I
written will be. Go, and bid the youth
Allal Abdi fear not."

Larry bounded across the sunlit
clearing, the last words of the mar-
about ringing in his ears, and plunged
among the trees, having a sense of
collecting him when the faint hush of
the forest was about to envelop him.

His mind was in a fevered state
know not where to go, he
made a complete circle
heart's beat, then, as though
he found what he sought,
avoided getting lost,
the place and
renewed his
vigilant search
of the forest.

Forlorn Figures

The man who only
wanted something to eat.

vari-hum gleaming like bits of colored glass in the gloom of the hut.

Silently the marabout watched them fluttering and falling about him, his eyes paying silent homage to the wizardry of this magician. He could not know that Larry had been careful,
that morning, to pluck only the fairest and fullest-blown of the flowers from which these petals had come.

Superstition and mystery are life itself to the marabouts, and Larry knew this, therefore he played to the limit on the gullibility of this ancient villain.

He knew, that as a result of this demonstration, his fame would go forth over the land in louder tones than ever; he knew also that in all probability Beuna could now be free of the menace of a long, Moorish knife-thrust in the dark.

As for himself, he could not tell. It was possible, even probable, that he had made himself out as so formidable,
that the marabouts would deem him a source of danger to themselves and order his early removal.

As the thought of the girl flitted
through his mind he turned his eyes
and glanced toward her—that is, he
gazed where she had been sitting when
he had hypnotized the marabout. But
she was not there!

Red rage flared across his vision. He
scented a marabout trick, yet he could
not understand how it had come about,
for he was certain—as certain as he
was that he was standing there—that
the Marabout of Adrar had had nothing
to do with the disappearance. Perhaps
she had stepped outside; yet, she hardly
would have done that, knowing that he
had expected her might need her; had
even told her to hold herself ready to
follow him lead if he should call on her
for assistance.

He became on the instant a fighting
man. His wizard's character dropped
from him like the shadows from el-Dhoul with the approach of dawn. His
long, slender sword came swinging from
its scabbard and flew in a whistling arc
about his head, to come to a pause with
its point pricking the throat of the
marabout. His voice, when he spoke,
was thick and heavy:

"Father of Bith, offspring of jackals,
what has become of my companion?"

At this, the marabout turned aston-
ished eyes on the spot where Penna
had sat, even as he shrunk from the
menace of the sword's point. Now he
turned and looked at Larry and the
latter could see the truth in the heavy,
fear-stricken eyes when the villain an-
swered:

"Al, the youth sat there when last
I glanced that way. I swear by Allah
and the hope of heaven that I know
not where he went, nor how."

And Larry realized that the men
spoke truly, whereupon, with a great
rage in his brain and a great wound
in his heart, he sped to the door and
looked outside, across the tiny, sunlit
clearing. But the only sign of life
that met his gaze was a tiny, white
osprey chick, twittering and hopping,
flitting and wavering, making hesitat-
ing little flights towards the green,
vivid wall of the forest.

He turned back to the marabout and
spoke swiftly:

"The youth my assistant has disappeared. I follow to seek him. Look
well, holy man, that you recall the
message you gave me concerning one
Allal Abdi, else Allah, along can stay
the vengeance that will be visited upon
you and yours."

"I have spoken; that which I
written will be. Go, and bid the youth
Allal Abdi fear not."

Larry bounded across the sunlit
clearing, the last words of the mar-
about ringing in his ears, and plunged
among the trees, having a sense of
collecting him when the faint hush of
the forest was about to envelop him.

His mind was in a fevered state
know not where to go, he
made a complete circle
heart's beat, then, as though
he found what he sought,
avoided getting lost,
the place and
renewed his
vigilant search
of the forest.

GIRLS BETTER BEHAVED THAN BOYS IS CLAIM

Conclusion Is Based on Statistics Compiled from City School Records

Is it true that girls are better behaved in school than boys? According to the yearly report of the city schools, submitted today, they are, at least in this locality. There were 65 more girls enrolled than boys during the year. The total enrollment for the year was 6,197, the average monthly enrollment

5,771, 2,914 girls and 2,857 boys. Relative to "cases of truancy," girls showed themselves to be much more discreet than the boys since of the 290 cases reported, 211 were among boys and only 79 among girls. Boys were more prone to feel the "iron hand of the law" in school as 277 of the 302 cases of corporal punishment listed were inflicted on boys. A total of 2,544 instances of tardiness were reported, 1,496 among boys and 1,048 among girls. More than half of the total number of students enrolled were registered as having perfect attendance for the entire year, 3,204 having been the total number, 1,504 girls and 1,692 boys. The attendance for the year was 94.5 per cent perfect, 94.8 boys and 94.1 per cent girls. The average daily attendance for the year was 5,426.1, the boys' attendance totaling 2,601.2 as a daily average and the girls 2,734.9.

100 Fire Drills

One hundred and seventy-three and one-half days were spent in school, 134 fire drills were conducted, and 124 cases of tardiness among teachers were reported. There were 1,420 visits of citizens, 3,780 home visits made by teachers, and 1,828 visits to schools made by Supt. Jesse H. Mason of the city schools. The music supervisor spent altogether 828 hours and 20 minutes in the various schools. A total of 504 transfers to other buildings were made, 505 were received by transfer, 310 from other school districts. Although two more girls transferred to other buildings than boys, nine more boys were received by transfer. Although, according to this report, girls have shown themselves to be more numerous, better behaved, more model pupils, scholarship was not mentioned.

Enrollment Increase
The total enrollment for the month of May, with which school activities were brought to a close, was 6,197, or 245 more than the enrollment in April and 145 more than the enrollment for May, 1926. The monthly enrollment showed a slight decrease from that of April, having been 5,608 last month and 5,674 the month before. At this time last year the monthly enrollment was only 5,476.

The per cent of attendance in May was 94.2, a slight improvement over last month's report of 93.5, and not quite as good as May, last year, when the attendance was 95.1. There were 40 less cases of tardiness reported this month than last and 43 more than the month of May, 1926. There were less cases of tardiness among teachers this month than last and nine more than at the same time last year.

Perfect Attendance
A total of 6,064 students were reported perfect in attendance, only 2,658 having attained that record last month and 3,107 having been perfect in attendance last May.

Three hundred and eighty-three home visits were made by teachers last month while 246 were reported the month before. Four hundred and fifty-four visits of citizens were reported for the month, although the number in April reached 489.

Rooms with an attendance of 94 per cent or more and no pupil tardiness were those taught by the following teachers: Bertha Orlans, Alice Domhaugh, Sara C. Atney, and Cecil Gahler. Those with 97 per cent more attendance and no pupil tardiness were the rooms taught by A. A. Wise, Pauline Kapp, Myrtle Baker, Grace Colvin, Fernie West, Philomena Greer, Flora Hamel and Jennette Hamilton.

Teachers making 10 or more home visits during the month were Evalone McKinley, Elizabeth Dairy, Lenore Zuck, Naomi Rinehart, Sylvia Celler, Bernice Kerr and Blanche DeLong.

Behind the Screen

Here is a new picture of the dashing hero of the screen, Warner Baxter. He recently asked to be released from his contract with Paramount because he did not want to play in western pictures.

DURING a recently held convention of the major motion picture producers, where modern trends and demands in film production have been discussed by veterans in the industry, D. W. Griffith, who is responsible for many fine films in that country, expressed the belief that flapper love and petting parties in the films are doomed. He says that films must have something more to offer than youth in its most foolish stages. That audiences are "bored to death" with the exhibition of puppy love and the general run of present-day motion picture drama. He thinks the more serious tales of adult experiences are to come into the limelight again.

And yet, does the public want this kind of pictures? Nowhere in the world is youth celebrated to such an extent as in America. Often, inexperienced and immature youngsters, with no claim whatsoever to the word "artist," except a pair of shapely legs or a sleek, shiny head that contains little idea of what art really is, are brought forward as "artists." All the while, experienced artists, who have back of them years of experience and excellent talent, are held back because of the lacking quality of "flaming youth."

In general, motion picture audiences are not the carefully planning or thoughtfully discriminating kind. Most of them go to the movies to "kill

Scribe Put Out by Increase In Number of Toll Bridges

Tariffs Corking High, Writer Finds, as He Makes Week-End Trip

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
WASHINGTON, June 15 — Toll roads have been obsolete these 50 years at least. Country highways used to have gates across them at intervals and you had to pay to get past. You read about it in Dickens. It would seem funny to autoists to be stuck up like that now. Or rather it wouldn't seem funny at all. Think how they'd roar!

But doesn't it strike 'em that toll time, and pictures are often seen because of their boudoir scenes rather than their fine dramatic value. It would seem that producers will have to struggle hard to create a desire for the "finer and sounder" things of the screen.

Jack Mulhall and Colleen Moore will be co-stars in "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." It is a tale of romance laid in Ireland and America.

Blanche Sweet says 75 per cent of those who write letters to the screen stars ask for something. They want a picture, an autograph, some cast-off clothing, or even a slightly used automobile.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has been engaged to play opposite Corinne Griffith in "The Garden of Eden." Fairbanks, Jr., has the part of a young American who accidentally meets the dance-hall girl (Miss Griffith) while both are enroute to the Hotel Eden.

Florence Vidor plays the part of a successful woman lawyer in her new picture, "The World at Her Feet."

Monte Blue is beginning work on his next picture, "The Bush Leaguer." It is a baseball story and furnishes Blue with a new kind of role.

Jack Mulhall and Charles Murray are featured in the screen version of "The Poor Nut," the stake play about college life.

As soon as Billie Dove has finished her present picture, "The American Beauty," she will be cast in the leading role of a movie entitled "The Heart of a Foolish Girl."

Malet Swor, a most recent discovery in filmdom, is being featured opposite Ben Lyon in "Hell's Kitchen."

bridges are about as bad? I don't believe it does. They appear to me to be getting accustomed to toll bridges so gradually that they don't think much about 'em.

Now, I'm not an autoist. Almost alone among my fellow Americans I never owned or drove a car. I practically never traveled in one, outside city streets, until two or three weeks ago.

Then it chanced that I took quite an excursion over a week-end. Inasmuch as it was a novelty to me, things caught my attention that on otherwise. I mentioned some of 'em to mine host and found that he considered 'em mere matters of course. One item was this toll bridge proposition.

THE toll bridges not only were numerous, but the tariffs were corking high.

A quarter seemed to be the minimum, 50 cents was nearer the average, and some were more than that. Besides, there was still surcharges for extra passengers. The total pre bridge frequently ran to one dollar or two.

On investigation, I discover that these bridges are expected to return 50 per cent apiece, or above, on the investment in 'em.

Such dividends aren't part of the cost of the roads upkeep, either. The swag goes into private pockets—corporations and individuals.

NAVIGABLE streams can't be bridged without congress' consent, and most of the toll bridges we crossed spanned navigable streams—navigable only by darned small craft in several instances, but so classed officially.

So I wondered: How many toll bridges has congress recently authorized?

I don't know, exactly, yet. It will take considerable digging to find out, for toll bridge builders are modest folks, who don't advertise when they introduce bills for congress to pass.

But this I did learn: Fifty-three toll bridges were authorized at the last session of congress, which only lasted three months.

This doesn't include toll bridges already built, previously authorized or contemplated—and I'm told there are a lot those.

THE Good Roads Bureau of the Department of Agriculture is worried. Its officials say toll bridges ought to be regulated. The bridge owners are understood to prefer not. Their industry is pretty well organized. They formed a national association at a meeting in St. Louis last January. On a show-down between a government bureau and an association representing any industry that's paying 50 per cent dividends, it usually is safest to bet in favor of the industry.

As a 100 per cent pedestrian, bridge tolls mean nothing to me, but if I cared a hoot for automobile touring and had to pay the tolls, I'd be sitting up and taking plenty of notice about now.

CHILDREN'S DAY PROGRAM PRESENTED AT WALDO

Waldo, June 15—Sunday night at the Reformed Church the annual Children's Day program was presented in the form of a beautiful pageant, "June Blessings." The rostrum was lovely in its decorations of flowers and foliage. The M. E. Sunday School presented their program at the same hour which was the story of the "Garden of Love" told in poetry and song. The platform was cleverly made into a garden of roses, illuminated by an artificial moon. Both houses were filled for the programs.

RECENTLY MARRIED COUPLE IS HONORED AT MARTEL

Martel, June 15—Mr. and Mrs. Will Glathart very pleasantly entertained a number of friends and relatives at their home near here, Saturday night, in honor of the recent marriage of their son, Myron, to Miss Helen Teeple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Teeple of Mt. Gilead. The couple was presented with many beautiful and useful gifts. Ice cream and cake were served by the hostess.

TOLEDON HEADS FORESTERS

Cincinnati, June 15 — Charles J. Richards, Toledo, was named grand chief ranger of the Ohio department, Foresters of America, at their annual convention here yesterday. Other officers elected were: Grand sub-chief ranger, A. M. Lillie, Bridgeport; grand treasurer, Paul Tanner, Toledo; grand secretary, Sid Whited, Lakewood; grand recording secretary, O. C. Land, Toledo; grand lecturer, T. J. Smith, Cleveland.

Happy Feet!

—and they'll stay happy, if you give them a chance! That's why children's specialists prescribe Simplex Flexies! They keep the little feet squarely on the ground, so the legs can't bow in or out. They give the toes room. Soles are so pliable you can bend them with the fingers. Glove smooth linings—no wrinkles or rough seams to hurt. And we're so careful in fitting them as the manufacturer is making them!

SPORT SAUCE

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB

LITTLE was heard of Al Libacott, stellar Harding High athlete, during his Freshman year at Ohio State, but now that school is out, fellow students at State bring word that the Marion youth played guard on the fraternity basketball team that won the intra-mural championship in that university.

Al was a Phi Delta Theta pledge and played on the Freshman team.

CHICAGO baseball fans are working themselves into a frenzy over the spectacular pennant dash of the Cubs, who have staged one of the greatest of all winning streaks of the season and are only one and a half games behind the league-leading Pirates.

The Cubs have been trimming some of the best teams in the league to make their advance while the White Sox, who went East with a splendid reputation, are being trimmed by some of the best teams in the American League to drop further behind the league-leading Yankees.

In fact, Chicago baseball fans don't know what team to favor, the Bruins or the White Sox, but they're both from the Windy City so why worry about which to boost the most?

The Cubs looked sick during the first few series of games and, for that matter, so did the White Sox. But the Sox made their wild dash beginning three weeks ago and reached their peak when they struck a snag in the form of the home run kings of the East, the hard-slugging outfit of Mr. Hughson, the New York Yankees. Since losing three out of four to the Yankees, the Sox have gone from the White Sox and they've hit the tobenagon.

But Joe McCarthy's hopefuls still are bound for the peak and stand a much better chance of dethroning the Pirates than any American League runner-up has of trimming that New York outfit. It's been in the lead so long that it's become a habit.

MARION ATHLETICS received only seven hits off the Detroit Glens Sunday while trimming them 5 to 0 but the batting stars of two of the local players who were hitting below the 300 mark took a sudden leap out of the 200 column.

Bacon and Rowan, each batting .500, regained some of their old prestige in the averages Sunday. Bacon's average, formerly .285, ascended to .333 when he got two hits out of four trips to the plate, and Rowan's .265 mark hit an even .300 when he received a hit out of two credited "times at bat."

THE three new men in the lineup of the Marion Athletics Sunday made a hit with fans, although they saw little of Elise in right field after Nuntville performed a brilliant feat in that garden earlier in the contest.

Dick Branshaw was the other "new" man. He needs no introduction to Marion fans, and although he failed to get a hit out of a credited three times to bat his playing behind the bat was creditable.

It is likely that a few new faces will appear in the lineup of Marion's representative recreational ball team tonight when it takes on the Delaware Turn to Page 18

HANE WINS GOLF TOURNEY

DEFEATS STOLL IN FINALS OF HANDICAP MEET

Joe Grundy Wins Second Flight on Local Golf Course

J. HANE won the Vice President's Cup handicap golf tournament of the Marion Country Club yesterday afternoon when he defeated H. R. Stoll in the finals, winning one up.

Joe Grundy beat O. S. Hays in the finals of the second flight.

The tournament opened May 30, being the first scheduled for the season. The next is booked for July 2-24, qualifying rounds being played July 2.

The first inter-club golf tournament of the season got under way at the Marion Country Club course today when Pindley arrived here for a set of about 14 matches.

The course is in excellent condition and low scores are expected to prevail during the tourney.

Marion will play its second inter-club match Saturday when the local players journey to Lima for a tourney.

Despite the unfavorable weather conditions for golf during the last few weeks, much interest is being shown by local fans.

OSGOOD-SHOVEL GAME IS AGAIN POSTPONED

Will Be Played in Near Future; Osgood Behind Schedule

The postponed game between the Osgood recreational ball team and Steam Shovel in the Industrial League, scheduled to be played tonight, has again been postponed, it was announced today.

The game will be played some time in the near future. Its outcome may go a long way in deciding the championship of the Industrial League. Osgood has played only two games so far this season.

Continues Contact With Par As Second Round Gets Under Way; Jones Trailing

Jimmy Johnston and Harry Hampton, of Memphis, Head List of Famous Golfers on Oakmont Course; All Scores Are Bad

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
OAKMONT, COUNTRY CLUB, Pa., June 15.—(Herald)—A day that pleased the eye and gladdened the heart, in contrast to yesterday's gloom, the field began play this morning in the second round of the national open golf championship and Harry Hampton of Memphis, one of the first round bellwethers, lost no time in resuming his contact with par. Harry, who shot a 73 yesterday to tie for the lead with Jimmy Johnston, the amateur, got a birdie 4 on the first hole and was one under par for the first time.

However, he had a 6 on the par 4 seventh and reached the turn in a hole better than 30. Still, he probably liked that better than Mike Brady liked his 45, with a 7 on the first hole. Michael was another first round leader with a 78.

It was considerably more pleasing, too, than the 43 of A. C. Whitcombe, the Britisher, for the first time, not to mention the predicament of Chick Evans, who had an 88 yesterday and started off today with a pair of fives and sixes on the first.

Meanwhile, Johnston had begun his round with a 5-4-5 on the first three. Then he took a big 7 on the big fourth and didn't like himself as well.

Harry Hampton and Jimmy Johnston today were leading in the field in the national open golf championship with 73's and Harry Cooper and Gene Sarazen were chasing this pair home with 74. Bill Mehlhorn, Emmett French and Larry Nubholz finished in a triangular tie for the next place with 75's. They followed Bobby Jones and Ted Ray, old but far from inept, with a pair of 70's. Jones thought he did badly, but as a matter of fact, he was a new hero.

All these gentry naturally still have a chance for the title, but there are more and several. Unfortunately the National Open Golf Tournament is not decided in one round. There are three more and perhaps any man who beats 80 is a man who entertains fond dreams to win.

Not Many British
In other words, not many British and plenty of Americans still are in the chase, although many for man the leaders did well. For instance, Fred Holman, of England, dropped out but Chick Evans, the American amateur who formerly held both open and amateur titles, might well have done likewise. He had an 88.

George Duncan, stylist of the invading brigade, was almost equally impotent. He had an 84. So did Bert Jolly, another Englishman who was not. He also had an 81.

WARNER DENIES BLAME PUT ON DEPARTMENT

Former Officer Charges "Spirit of St. Louis" Need Not Have Been Damaged

Washington, June 15—While Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's famous transatlantic plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," rested in a hangar at the naval air station today, awaiting its pilot, an acrimonious controversy broke out here today over who was to blame for the defective motor which prevented Lindbergh from flying the ship to New York.

Col. William Mitchell, former stormy petrel of the army air service, and admittedly one of the foremost fliers of the country, flatly charged that the faulty engine was due to "naval ineptness."

Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aviation, denied that any blame could be attached to the navy and asserted that the plane was reassembled at the Anacostia Field by engineers for the Wright company.

Held Down Men, Claim

Colonel Mitchell made his charge in a letter to the Washington Post, which had printed a communication from personnel that handled Lindbergh's ship.

"In command of naval air matters are incompetent directing heads, placed there by the battalions men to keep a strangle hold on air power," said Colonel Mitchell. "This means incompetence all the way down. Today the navy lives principally on hot air propaganda manufactured and spread by their Washington lobby. Since the naval vessels were sunk by airplanes in 1921 and it was proved to the world that battleships were useless the naval propagandists still hedged behind the cry that airplanes could not fly across the seas. They were successful in preventing service pilots from doing it."

"But the civilian Lindbergh, using his head, his practical knowledge of flying and his indomitable courage, flew across the sea."

Run to President, Charge

"The navy bureaucrats were quick to see the effect of Lindbergh's flight. One may imagine them running to the president and calling upon the industries that sell them equipment to assist, so as to turn Lindbergh's flight to their own advantage from a propaganda standpoint. They carried their point and sent the cruiser Memphis to take charge of Lindbergh. They had done nothing to help him before the flight but now they made a great roar over him."

"The plane which had to bend to the current of the opinion."

"The plane which had been built by the English, put it in the Memphis, and, as Colonel Mitchell said, the salt water was allowed to enter it. Of course there was corrosion wherever it struck. There was no excuse for not keeping this plane safe and dry on its trip across. The plane was taken off at Anacostia by the navy and assembled under the navy's direction. The navy had plenty of time to test it in every way, but when Lindbergh came to fly it in New York it was in no fit condition to fly."

Hits at Navy

"It was the one failure of the 'Spirit of St. Louis' performance and it was caused by the organization in this country which has always impeded and held up aviation—the navy."

Warner's letter detailed how the plane had been reassembled by navy mechanics under the direction of the owners' engineers. He asserted that "the trouble was of such nature that the plane could probably have taken off, and if the failure had occurred in the air the plane could have continued its journey to destination under the light load carried."

"While the failure probably would not have proven at all serious in its consequences had it occurred in flight," said Warner, "it can only be set down as one of those things which happen one time in a thousand and against which it is hardly possible to guard. Such failures are exceedingly rare."

Mitchell's Retort

To this, Mitchell retorted that "the writer of this has little regard for the life of a pilot when he makes such a statement, because if there is any trouble whatever with an engine it is apt to stop and if it stops or tears to pieces the life of the pilot is often the forfeit."

"It is the sort of statement that is to be expected from a man inexperienced in aviation and merely put up as a figurehead for the naval bureaucracy."
